“Recent studies have revealed that an average student enrolled in a social and emotional learning program ranks at least ten percentile points higher on achievement tests than students who do not participate in such programs.”
-T. Shriver & R. Weissberg

Open Circle appears in the U.S. Department of Education’s Expert Panel guidebook of Exemplary and Promising Safe, Disciplined, and Drug-Free Schools Programs, which lists prevention programs that “[show] promise for improving student achievement.”

Open Circle has also been chosen by the Collaborative for Academic, Social & Emotional Learning (CASEL) as one of its “Select SEL programs” that are “especially effective and comprehensive in their SEL coverage, their documented impact, and the staff development they provide.”
